A large, industrial-grade evaporator unit is mounted on a rooftop. The unit is constructed from galvanized steel and features a prominent "evapco" logo on its side. The logo consists of the word "evapco" in white lowercase letters inside a blue shield-shaped border. The unit is supported by a metal frame with several legs. On the left side, there are several pipes and valves, including a large red-handled valve and a black vertical pipe. On the right side, there is a circular access panel and a small electrical control box. The rooftop surface is covered in gravel, and there are some wet patches. In the background, there are trees and a residential building under an overcast sky.
